

DJ Yumene recruiting for another radio station?!

Posted by Wolfrages - 25 Sep 2011 06:50

So at 02:44 est 25/09/2011 i heard this DJ recruiting for subspace radio? am not sure if this is allowed. but should it? I mean, i love eve-radio and couldn't care less for another radio station. It's like listing to payed advertising on our radio station. I want to know your guy'es position on this topic.

Should DJ's be allowed to advertise for Other Radio Stations?!

well, subspace radio is part of GRN and is a sisterstation to EvE-Radio, so i cant see the absolute horror in that.

but yeah, advertising or recruiting for other radio stations is a very bad thing and can carry very bad consecuenses if caught.

or so i think ..

To be honst Agree with the OP... If any EVE Radio DJ want to advertise for any GNR Radio station then they should Advertise for ER => I mean... with the new "Channel Format" theres so many more slots now in the open!

Its not the first time i see a "EVE" Radio DJ talk about StarTrek Online on air and how cool it is and wht not... we are EVE players, we play EVE... we couldnt care less about ST to be hones lol

So yeah guys...Stick with EVE... thts my 2 Cents!

Kind Regards, Zmaster BloodLust

Yumene is on the GRN recruitment team so deals with recruitment and application for everything we dip our fingers in.

Would probably agree that it shouldn't be allowed but i guess the post above this clears that up.

EVE Radio should only be about EVE - that is the sole reason why i started listening

I am a former Gaming Radio presenter & back in those days we weren't allowed to advertise other radio stations.
