Yes indeed, but from the beggining of my career in Eve, it was about: make isk for plex, don't buy anything, just isk isk isk, and now, it's boring with the Drake, but finally my finance situation is getting better. ●

I need to find myself one of these so called women that play eve so she would play with me instead of telling me to stop playing and calling me a nerd like that last one.

MrBlades:

Poor, poor, misguided boy. Do you want me to cage you again?

Draekulcruzzer peelutz:

EWWWWWWWWWW. I'll pew you boys in Draeks at teh same tiem. I'll be the lady in the Carrier.

Stupid people:

Hell Cats. Can't remember if they're still going, but that was an all-female pirate Corp.

I am a female - the mythical breasticled nerdette - and I'll kick your ass. =P

I think girls make excelant players. They approach problems some what different than male players.

Never have understood why so many guys do not give credit to them, ..hahaha yet they play a female toon, as if another guy can't tell the difference.

Drakes may be boring, but in missions they get the job done, an cheaper by far to replace, than a Battleship. So... It makes since to use that ship in missions. Its the proper tool for the job.

I think they also require less skill training than any other race ship too.

When you really bliz L4 mision do you really think that "I can probably loose my ship"? If you don't fall in sleep, then it's impossible to get killed in L4 mission. (Assuming that you are not 110% fail fitted.)

What comes to drake, it's awesome ship, but not even solid L4 mission runner. (It takes over 1h to bliz Angel extravaganza with desent skills, and over 1b worth fit .) So conclusion is, buy a lot of chocolad and give kiss to your girl and take your real dear bear fit . (But do not FAIL .)

Not always, not always. Then again, I'd had female players think I was female too... guess I'm just the exception to the rule xD
